

Case study

By Incommunities Group Ltd

Incommunities Group Ltd has been a member of the Northern Housing Consortium for a number of years and both organisations have maintained a strong and loyal working relationship resulting in numerous successful projects and positive outcomes.

The latest project both organisations worked on together is the procurement of Occupational Health services for Incommunities Group Ltd. This was managed by Consortium Procurement as a part of our bespoke service offer.

"We contacted the Consortium Procurement team for support with the procurement of Occupational Health services, specifically in relation to the arduous tendering process. The procurement process was compliant and we were able to gain an Occupational Health Service which meet the needs of the business and have gained value for money savings," commented Penny Gilyard.

Consortium Procurement issued the tender for a single contractor for all Occupational Health, including fast track physiotherapy and an Employees Assist Programme (EAP) to approximately 1000 employees located within the Bradford District of the United Kingdom.

"I would recommend the bespoke service to other clients who may need external support and guidance with procurement legislation and designing the tender specification," added Penny.

Depending on our capacity and your specific requirements, we can manage the process on your behalf and guide you through any procurement exercise from start to finish, delivering value for money and peace of mind. Our procurement professionals are experts in their fields of work and strive to deliver best quality service to our members.
