

Case study

By St. Leger Homes

St. Leger Homes (SLH) is an Arms' Length Management Organisation created by Doncaster Council in 2005 and has been a member of Consortium Procurement for a number of years utilising various frameworks from the Consortium's portfolio of solutions.

SLH is currently using our framework for Property Safety and Security, which provides members with products and services they need to make sure their customers are safe in the places they live and work, as well as ensuring compliance with legislation in particular with fire safety regulations.

Kevin Middlebrook commented: "I have worked in procurement at SLH for five years and have been working with Consortium Procurement for all of that period. The procurement exercises have been straight forward and the Consortium Procurement team was as hands on or off as we required or needed, which I think is great and works really well. The service we have received from the Consortium has been to a very good standard and me and my team were satisfied with the support we received throughout.

"They have a good starting point; a good variety of frameworks available and educated staff administrating them. I have found that the procurement team is always willing to listen to any suggestions clients have which could improve the service moving forward."

St Leger Homes provides housing services across Doncaster in the social and private sectors and manages around 20, 600 properties.
